

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Methods and systems for dynamically adjusting the length of delay before playback as a function of the amount of transmission jitter is disclosed, whereby a target error rate is received, error rates at different delays are tracked and current 5 delay is adjusted as a function of tracked error rates.